Loss in North St. Louis, With Rows of Houses and Factories Down, Appalling One Says.

Among the busiest concerns in he city today were insurance agenies and adjustment bureaus whose epresentatives were making an inrestigation of the damage in the torm devastated districts.

Until a thorough checking up could be made none of the agencies, or their representatives, would venture any definite estimate as to the amount of damage.

At two adjustment agencies a Post-Dispatch reporter was told re-ports indicated the damage would not be in excess of $10,000,000, while at a third agency it was estimated the loss would run from $10,000,000 to even as high as $100,000,000. The agent making the latter estimate considered the loss in North St. Louis appalling, with rows of houses and factories

Insurance men said no matter what the actual damage is not more than 50 per cent would be covered by insurance. Tornado in-surance is carried on most buildings, it was stated. It was pointed out that on all houses where there is a deed of trust the holder of the deed requires tornado as well as fire insurance as an added protection. However, very few perhousehold goods and other peronal property, much of which was damaged in yesterday's storm, it In regard to damage to automoiles most automobile insurance, it was pointed out, contains a rider providing for coverage in case of damage or loss by tornado. This surance c n be obtained for 15 cents a hundred and agents always advise customers to take the rider. Considerable of the loss, it was pinted out, was due to rain after the tornado hit, but insurance men said it was not likely that insurance companies would attempt to evade payment on the ground that the tornado insurance did not cover such loss. It would be an easy matter, it was explained, to prove that the primary cause was the tornado which carried off roofs, and knocked out walls thereby letting in the rain.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

THE CONSTITUTION IN WAR TIME. SENATOR BORAH in the Century Magazine

THERE is an ancient document known as the Constitution of the United States in which is written: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof: or abridging the freedom of speech." Not deny the freedom of speech, not prohibit the freedom of speech, but not ever shall, Congress abridge the freedom of speech.

But there is a peculiar doctrine which has come to have recognition among us. It was said during the late war that as soon as war declared, the Constitution of United States was in a sense suspended, that the Congress could pass any law it saw fit. of amusement, and I still really think it is. But as a matter of fact, it was seriously advocated by learned and able men, legislators and heads of executive departments. It was on that theory and apparently on that principle that many things were done during the war. For myself, I want to repudiate it once and for all. I trust that no such vicious and unAmerican doctrine will ever be seriously considered by the people of this country. . . The framers of the Constitution had all passed through a great conflict that lasted eight years. They undoubtedly understood that the Republic would in all probability be called upon to wage war in the future. Do you suppose they thought they were building a Govern ment or writing a Constitution that was to function only during peaceful days? They wrote a Constitution sufficient and efficient to carry on the work of peace and also to carry on the war. The Constitution gives sufficient power by its own terms for the conduct of war, and none of its provisions is suspended or annulled by the declaration of war. Any other theory would be utterly ricious. It would be to write into our very Government the doctrine of the tyrants that necessity knows no law.

RITCHIE OF MARYLAND. FRANK R. KENT in Scribner's.

THE answer to the question of who is 1 backing Ritchie is that Ritchie is backing himself. His State is behind him, of course, and he has more influential political and financial friends in the country than any one suspects, but he is not being financed or pushed or promoted by any interests, individuals, organizations, or agen cies. He never has been. As to the sort of President he would make, the answer is he would make the sort of President for the country that he has made Governor for Maryland-a highly intelligent, extraordinarily capable, amazingly industrious, extremely effective, absolutely upright, and very popular President-who would combine high standards of efficiency and an inherent and unshakeable decency with an exceedingly practical political outlook-President who would induce the very best men in the country to serve in his Cabinet, just as he has been singularly successful in getting that sort to serve in State jobs and on State boards in Maryland-a President who would believe, except in rare instances, it unnecessary to go outside the Democratic party to get the best men—a president who would be a candidate for a second term the day after he is elected for the first term. There remains only this to say-that if ever he does get to the White House Ritchie will look more as if he belonged here than any President we have had in a considerable

THE POOR DEARS.

From the New York Times. M AYOR WALKER'S denunciation of amefaced Americans in Paris comes as a surprise. The culprit he has in mind are American business men and even Government representatives, who with residence abroad grow apologetic for their native land. Popular belief has been the way. Hitherto we have been told of a tendency on the part of lukewarm Americans to warm up to 100 per cent temperature under an alien sky. The returning American tourist is by tradition depicted in the act of saluting the Statue of Liberty and the immediate promise of real food and adequate bathing facilities.

The dissident Americans abroad of whom we have heard most since the war are not the business men or the Government of-They are the Americans who ficials. patronize not the Champs Elysees but the Left Bank. Their legendary headquarters are the Cafe du Dome and the Cafe de la Rotonde. They are the young writers and artists and life-questers who have shaken from their feet the dust of a Babbitt-ridden America where it is impossible for a man to think in freedom or write in accordance with his own orthography and syntax. These are the expatriates of whom much has been said and who have been saying still more about themselves.

Concerning such rebels, there have been of late reports both sad and illuminating. It has been stated that they are not happy. Like other refugees better known to fame, they have not succeeded in conquer-ing nostalgia. They crossed the ocean in response to the call of Pan and, sometimes, enus Anadyomene. Now they sit about and, in moments of weariness, they hear from across the seas the ancestral voices of Babbitt calling, calling. They find them-selves uprooted. Having fled from home in order to be free to think and write, they find that they have nothing to think or write about. It is a little too late in the day to transform themselves into pagan Frenchmen. Every little while when they don't watch out the goblins of the homeland get them.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20. - The stock market gave an impressive demonstration of strength today in response to the unexpectedly small decrease of less than $22,000,000 in brokers' loans. Heavy buying for both accounts took place in a wide variety of issues, with numerous gains of 2 to 10 points scattered throughout the list. Eric Railroad common, which has never paid a lividend, advanced nearly points to 69%, the highest price in more than 20 years' trading.

Maintenance of the relatively firm call money rate of 4 per cent and the culling of about $10,000,000 in loans were regarded as incidental to month-end settlements.
